Scope & Content

Henry L. Whiting, whose career with the Coast and Geodetic Survey spanned forty years, charted and described the terrain along the Hudson River from New York City to Albany during a reconnaissance in September and October, 1859. The file includes topographic drawings at Barrytown, Four Mile Point and Saugerties along the Hudson. Also included, but apparently unrelated to the Hudson River drawings, are scale drawings of machinery and machine parts, and two photos of dredging operations (possibly on the Mississippi River).
